

CONSTRUCTION

Johnson & Bell's Construction group is a seasoned and creative litigation team, representing building owners, developers, architects, engineers, general contractors, construction managers, homebuilders, carpentry contractors, electrical contractors, specialty contractors and subcontractors. Our Construction group attorneys are involved in contracting and litigation in both commercial and residential construction projects, road and bridge construction and environmental claims asserted by state and federal agencies. Our clients include local, regional, national and international contractors and we advise them on their private and public sector projects.

Our cases involve:

- Architect and engineering malpractice
- Construction site accidents
- Construction defects
- Contract disputes
- Contract drafting
- Insurance coverage disputes
- OSHA investigations and citation proceedings and representation
- Pension, Health & Welfare Fund contribution litigation
- Personal injury claims
- Property damage claims
- Publicly bid project disputes
- Mechanics-lien disputes
- Risk management and accident investigation
